

Management Consulting Service for Nondestructive Inspection Technology

Management consulting service for nondestructive inspection technology is to provide high-quality consulting services in system certification (including special equipment inspection, CNAS and CMA) and integrated operation management of oilfield equipment. It can also provide guidance for internal audit of management system, total quality management (TQM), safety standardization construction and other aspects involved in the enterprise development process. Besides, it can carry out various professional trainings according to enterprise needs.

Technical Feature

- Provide specific management solutions according to customer needs.
- Provide high-quality services by experienced consulting teams.

Service Scope

- Management scheme design: To deal with no uniform standards of oilfield database, construction schemes are provided to unify data management and to support integrated management system of oilfield equipment data. It is proposed to support the integrated management of equipment throughout its life cycle from purchase, installation, use, testing, maintenance and scrapping.
- Consulting service: China national accreditation service for conformity assessment (CNAS), QHSE management system certification, China metrology certification (CMA), and Special equipment inspection and testing certification.
- Training service: Quality management, system management, system operation, project management, risk management, high-risk operation, excellent safety, electrical safety, defensive driving, trainers and other types of training.
- Consulting service: On-site and perennial consultation.

Qualification

- An excellent consulting team composed of experts qualified as national registered auditors and business elite with rich management and consulting experiences.

Service Performance

- More than 30 customers covering petroleum, chemical industry, machinery and other fields.

